

“I think humans should not modify their environment to help them observe things. Using our senses is the natural thing to do. Our ears, tongues, eyes, etc. give us the best possible picture of reality.”
-Pizzapus

I disagree Pizzapus. If we didn't modify the natural world to make technology, and then use that technology to make lenses, we wouldn't know what things look like close up.
-Albert Einstein

Yes, but it is more than just lenses. We have other technology that modifies our senses to make observations. There is tons we wouldn't understand without it.
